

MERLN

Military Education Library Research Network
<http://merln.ndu.edu>

Maintained by the NDU Library and available to all, MERLN features a number of resources that have been designed to support the curriculum of professional military education institutions, including:

- Research guides on frequently-studied topics, such as National Security Strategy, Terrorism and Homeland Security;
- A searchable full-text database of U.S. National Security strategies;
- Access to military journals published by professional military institutions; and
- Digital collections featuring personal papers, historical documents, and government reports.
- A collection of defense white papers from over 80 countries in both the language of publication and English, where available; previous editions are also accessible.

National Defense University Libraries

300th Fifth Avenue, Ft. McNair
Washington, D.C. 20319
202-685-3511
ndulibref@ndu.edu

Ike Skelton Library
7800 Hampton Blvd.
Norfolk, VA 23511-1702
757-443-6401
Reference2@ndu.edu

R:/RIS/Life-After-NDU/Life-After-NDU-June2013

Congratulations, Students!

We have enjoyed working with you this past year, and will miss you after graduation. From comments we have heard, we know that you will miss us, too. To ease your transition, use this guide to find libraries and research resources wherever you may be.

Library & Research Services available to all

At Your Workplace

Most federal agencies have libraries, although they may not be located where you are. Ask your chain of command, check your intranet site, or look for an electronic form or email address to learn about your Library.

Assigned to the Pentagon or the State Department? Check out the Pentagon Library website (<http://www.dtic.mil/whs/esd/pntlib/>) now to learn about their services. Contact the State Department Library via email at library@state.gov to request your account.

Public Libraries

Google your city or county library website; you'll find services, list of databases, location, hours and contact information. You may be able to conduct research from home after signing into the library's website, or ask questions via text or chat.

Need help finding your local library?

Check out
<http://www.worldcat.org/libraries>

Resources for U.S. Military (access varies by service)

<http://www.militaryonesource.mil/>
(all services)

Resources include: Audio & E-book collections, Auto Repair Reference Center, magazine & journal articles, and Army, Air Force, Marine Corps, Navy & Federal Times

<https://www.my.af.mil>

Resources include: Audio & E-book collections, Britannica Academic, EBSCOhost & Gale Databases, magazine & journal articles, and Morningstar

<https://www.us.army.mil>

Resources include: Audio & E-book collections, Consumer Health Complete, Home Improvement Reference Center, Kids Infobits, Military & Intelligence Database and World History collection

<https://www.marinenet.usmc.mil/>

Resources include: Audio & E-book collections, ProQuest Ancestry, Navy Warfare Library Health and Wellness Center, State, Local and Military News

N@VY Knowledge Online

<https://wwwa.nko.navy.mil>

Resources include: Audio & E-book collections, ProQuest Ancestry, navy Warfare Library Health and Wellness Center, State, Local & Military news

Language Learning Online

Check for Mango or Transparent Languages; often available at public libraries.

AF ISR Language Portal

<http://www.afclc.com>

Culture and Language education and training for DoD service members and civilians. Must have CAC and be on .mil or .gov computer.

Joint Language University

<http://JLU.wbtrain.com>

Free resources available to all; subscription resources available to DoD users—register with .mil or .gov